

The FCC absolutely should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

I work out of my home. The unwanted soliciation interruptions prior to the provacy act negatively impacted my job performance and productivity. The company I work for can not afford these unnecessary interruptions.

Currently I am able to complete tasks on a timely basis without interruptions.

I have received no unwanted calls since submitting my request. I would receive approximately 75 calls a week previously.

Please DO NOT lower the standard.
